

Name: Eli

Year Group: 3

Term: Autumn

Date: 11.11.21

Writing Focus: A ^{setting} description of contrasting

I can smell the burning fire. The robins are out chirping super loudly. A little snow flake drifted into my mouth it tasted horrible. The snow is really cold it nearly froze my hand. I saw a cabin it was made out of wood like every one. I saw some horses in the snow. They were covered in snow. So I brushed the snow off and hopped on. They were dashing round the forest. The trees got in our way so we took a path which did not have lots of trees. We went back to the cabin. I got off the snowy horses and went into the old wooden cabin. I stayed there for 4 or 5 nights and it got a bit scary. I went back on the horses to find a new cabin. This cabin I found was amazing it had fire a couch and good, loved it. It is boiling here and, feels like im going to melt. I taste the coconuts they are very tasty. Its very sunny it is heating my eyes. I lied on a sun bed in the shade and got a bit cold.

After ^{that} I went for a swim in the salty blue ocean. Its a strong smell. I can hear people playing and shouting and every thing else. Then my friends joined in and we played beach games.