LO: to write a character description.

Ebenezer Scrooge was a sour, lonely old miser who wanted nothing but money. He was always grumpy, and not at all social with anybody but honoured his only family, his nephew, Fred.

Scrooge kept himself solitary and never spoke to anyone to keep his grim feelings inside. He never lent a penny to the poor and never spent a dime on himself either.

Scrooge lived all on his own in his large house, 45 Lime Street. He started his own business as an accountant with his kind-hearted, poor but happy work partner, Bob Cratchit. Bob needed the money for his large family but Scrooge was stubborn and didn't give him enough. Bob has a little boy called Tiny Tim that couldn't walk and Bob loves him and he needed the money for him and the time for the whole family.

Scrooge's black heart matched his black clothes. His clock followed behind him like his grey, gloomy cloud full of his sadness. He held a metal, tall cane and smashed it to the cobbles, hard ground every time he took a step and his top hat made him look taller and richer but not any happier.
